
ANNUAL MIDWEST CONFERENCE OF PARASITOLOGISTS

March 5, 1975

Dear AMCOP member:

The 27th annual meeting of the Midwest Conference of Parasitologists is to be held at Iowa State University on June 6 and 7, 1975. This preliminary announcement serves to provide some general information concerning the Conference.

The program this year will consist as before of a series of demonstrations, open to graduate students as well as to faculty members. The Eli Lilly award is again to be presented for the most outstanding graduate student presentation; however, faculty members are also urged to participate by preparing demonstrations of their research efforts.

In addition, a newly-established award will be given for the best oral presentation by a graduate student. Either of these two awards is open to graduate students on a competitive basis.

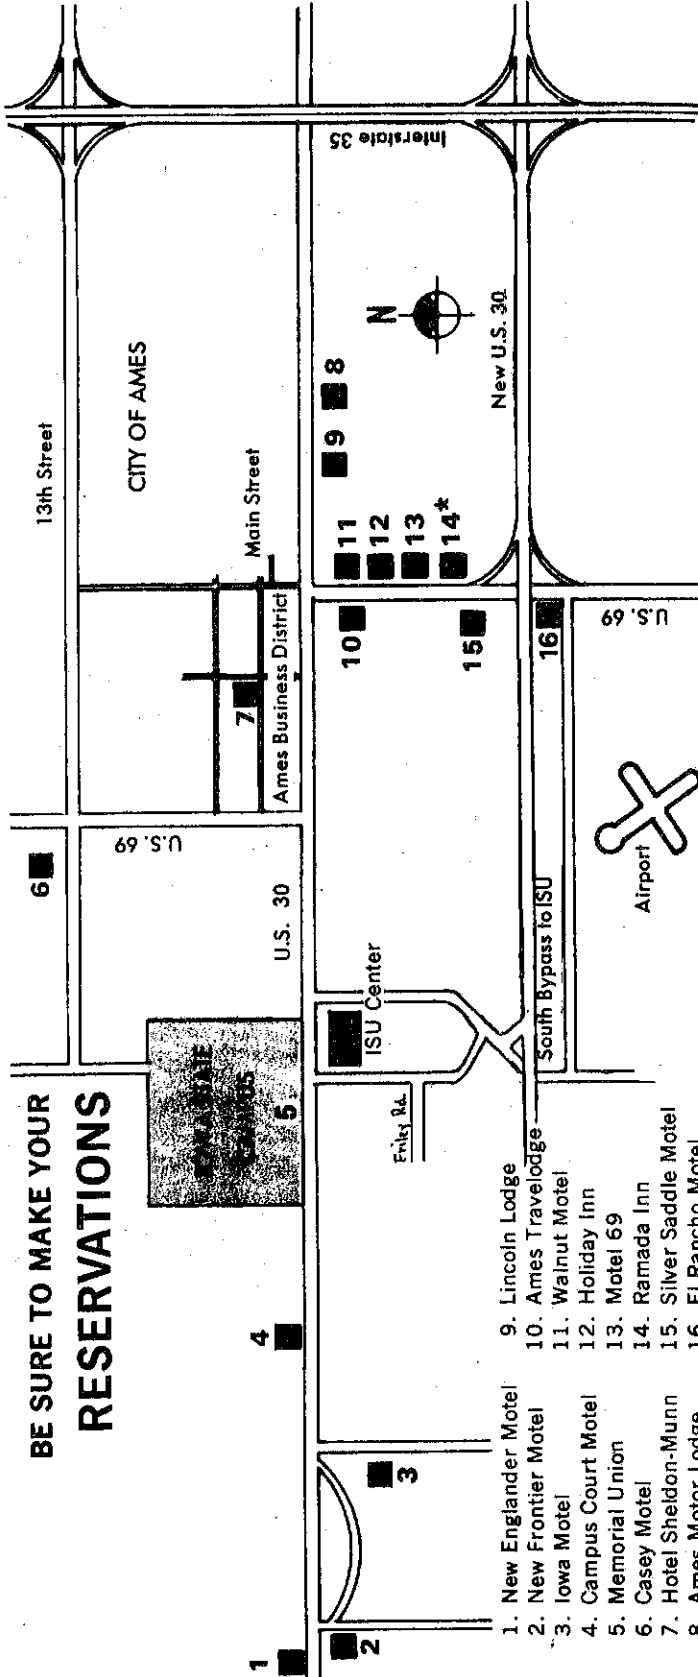

Further details regarding registration, program, and entry blanks for demonstrations or oral presentations will be sent to you later this month. Titles and abstracts for presentation will be due on May 10, 1975.

Plan now to attend the 27th AMCOP session in Ames!

ANNUAL MIDWESTERN CONFERENCE OF PARASITOLOGISTS
Report to Council, American Society of Parasitologists

The 27th Annual Midwestern Conference of Parasitologists was held at Iowa State University on June 6-7, 1975. Dr. M. J. Ulmer and associates were in charge of the local arrangements.

The 90 registrants took in 20 demonstrations and 7 papers on various parasitological topics. The C. A. Herrick Award, given to that graduate student who best displays his research, was won by Darwin Wittrock (Iowa State University) for his display entitled "Histochemical and ultrastructural studies on the ventral papillae of the notocotylid trematode Quinqueserialis quinqueserialis". This was the ninth time that the Herrick Award, sponsored by Eli Lilly & Company, has been given. A new award, named in honor of George R. LaRue, was developed for the best oral presentation. The winner of the LaRue Award was Valerie Nelson (Iowa State University) for her paper entitled "Cell adherence reactions to Ascaris suum; characterization of the fluid component". It is hoped that the LaRue Award will take its place alongside the Herrick Award as an annual feature of the conference.

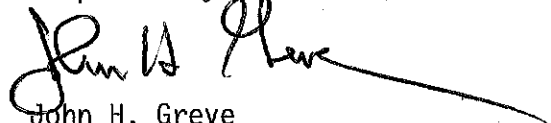

Another feature of the 27th AMCOP was a special recognition of Raymond M. Cable (Purdue University) for his many years of contribution to the science and art of parasitology in the Midwest. Several of his graduate students were on hand to reflect upon the life of a graduate student under Dr. Cable. Dr. Paul M. Nollen, a student of Dr. Cable, gave the main address on "Studies on the reproductive systems of parasitic flatworms, or all you wanted to know about sex in worms and were afraid to ask", in which he demonstrated that selfing is a variable, but common, act among the platyhelminths he studied.

The 28th meeting will be held at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, and Dr. Mary Lou Pritchard as host.

Officers for the 28th meeting were elected and are as follows:

Presiding Officer: Dr. John H. Greve, Iowa State University
Program Officer: Dr. Mary Lou Pritchard, University of Nebraska
Secretary-Treasurer: Dr. William H. Coil, University of Kansas

Respectfully submitted,

John H. Greve
Secretary-Treasurer, AMCOP

Abstract

The 27th Annual Midwestern Conference of Parasitologists met on June 6-7 at Iowa State University, with 90 registrants. The ninth annual C. A. Herrick Award was won by Darwin Wittrock for excellence in demonstrating his research in histochemical and ultrastructural studies on Quinqueserialis quinqueserialis. The first annual G. R. LaRue Award was presented to Valerie Nelson for her excellent oral presentation of research on the cell adherence reaction.

Dr. Raymond M. Cable was given special recognition for his many years of contribution to parasitology in the Midwest. Several of his former students were on hand.

New officers elected were J. H. Greve, Presiding Officer; Mary Lou Pritchard, Program Officer; and W. H. Coil, Secretary-Treasurer. The 28th meeting will be at Lincoln, Nebraska.

ANNUAL MIDWESTERN CONFERENCE OF PARASITOLOGISTS

Report to Council, American Society of Parasitologists

The 28th Annual Midwestern Conference of Parasitologists was held at University of Nebraska on May 28-29, 1976. Mary Lou Pritchard and associates were in charge of the local arrangements.

Seventy-four registrants attended the meetings which had six demonstrations and fifteen papers (oral presentations) Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. Dr. Arlie C. Todd gave the banquet address: "A Redefinition of Subclinical Parasitism--and its impact on world politics."

The Herrick Award was supported for the 10th year by Eli Lilly for $200. The LaRue Award is only two years old; it was supported this year for the first time by Ann Arbor Biological Supply for $100. Two additional awards were financed from funds raised by the local committee: the Manter Award ($25) and the Ward Award ($25).

The winners were:

W. L. Current (Herrick Award), "Sporogenic Cycle of Henneguya exilis in the channel catfish."

C. A. Klucas (LaRue Award), "Hatching Fluid of Ascaris suum used as an immunizing agent in pigs."

W. L. Current (Ward Award) and B. M. Christensen (Manter Award) were the second-place winners in each category.

The 29th meeting will be held at Kansas State University in the new veterinary medicine facility on June 10 and 11, 1977.

Officers for the 29th meeting are:

Presiding Officer, T. T. Dunagan, Southern Illinois University.

Program Officer, W. D. Lindquist, Kansas State University.

Secretary-Treasurer, W. H. Coil, University of Kansas.

Respectfully submitted,

William H. Coil
Secretary-Treasurer, AMCOP

Dear Dr. Coil:

As you may know, Ray Cable will be retiring at the end of this academic year. To commemorate this occasion, we are arranging a special program for the Annual Midwest Conference of Parasitologists in Ames, Iowa, early this coming June. You may have already received details of these meetings, and we hope that many of you will be able to attend.

At the meetings, we plan to present Ray with a bound volume of personal messages from his former students, expressing to him our gratitude for ways in which he influenced our lives and professional careers. We hope that each one of you will find the time to write a letter telling of your present activities, as well as mentioning any anecdotes about or conversations with Ray that may have highlighted your association with him. We felt that this would have more lasting meaning to Ray than to solicit contributions for a gold watch or bronze plaque. Moreover, it is our opportunity to tell a story on him for a change!

We are also planning to assemble a collection of photographs for display at the meetings and subsequent presentation to Ray. A current photograph of you (and your family), together with any that you may have saved from your days at Purdue, would be especially appreciated. If you can send slides, we will make copies and return them promptly.

We know that there are many who share our feelings of gratitude toward Ray and if you know of anyone who should be included on the list to receive this letter, but whom we have inadvertently omitted, please let us know or share this letter with that person.

So that we may complete the binding arrangements soon, we would like to have your letter and photos sent to either one of us not later than March 21, 1975. Ray does not yet know of this venture, and we hope to keep it a secret until the meetings.

We extend warmest regards and sincere gratitude in advance for your contributions. It will make Ray's retirement a truly memorable occasion.

Cordially,
